Of which mature markets ²	2,951	2,756	+7.1%	+5.4%
Of which emerging markets ²	779	817	-4.7%	-6.3%

¹ In this press release, "organic" means "at constant scope and exchange rates".

² Mature markets: Europe, North America, Australia, New Zealand; emerging markets: all other countries. See table on page 5.

“Q1 2022 sales and order intake are in line with our expectations. Order intake is logically lower than in Q1 2021, which included four large contracts worth more than €100 million each. The strong dynamics of our space and DIS businesses offset the slight decline in Defense & Security revenues, which is only due to a high basis of comparison. Despite supply chain tensions and uncertainties about the strength of air traffic recovery, we are confirming all our financial targets for 2022.”

Patrice Caine, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer

Order intake

Order intake for the first quarter of 2022 amounted to € 3,033 million, down 6% compared to the first quarter of 2021 at constant scope and exchange rates, and down 4% on a reported basis, including a positive exchange rate effect of €50 million.

During the quarter, the Group recorded two large orders worth over €100 million each, for a total of €387 million, compared to four large orders in Q1 2021:

- the order of two Space Inspire satellites by Intelsat
- the order of an additional Space Inspire satellite by SES

At €1,878 million, intake of orders of less than €10 million was up 6% compared to Q1 2021, even though the civil aeronautics business remained affected by the public health crisis.

From a geographical perspective², order intake was up 5% on an organic basis in mature markets and down 39% on an organic basis in emerging markets. Q1 2021 included the booking of the SATHIA telecommunications satellite in Indonesia.

At €1,182 million, compared to €998 million in the first quarter of 2021, Aerospace order intake grew by 17% on an organic basis, driven by the performance of the space business, with the two orders over €100 million mentioned above.

At €1,100 million, compared to €1,513 million in Q1 2021, Defense & Security order intake was down by 29% on an organic basis, as Q1 2021 included 3 orders of over €100 million each. The jumbo contract for the supply of 80 Rafale fighter jets to the United Arab Emirates will be booked in Q2 2022.

Order intake in the Digital Identity and Security segment is, as in every quarter, very close to sales, as most of the activities in this segment operate on short cycles.

Sales

Sales for the first quarter of 2022 were €3,730 million, compared with €3,573 million in the first quarter of 2021, up 4.4% on a reported basis and up 2.7% at constant scope and exchange rates.

From a geographical perspective², growth was driven by mature markets, which recorded growth of 5.4% on an organic basis, driven in particular by strong market dynamics in Europe (+4.5%) and North America (+16.7%), partly offset by the decline in emerging markets (negative organic growth of -6.3%).

In the Aerospace segment, sales amounted to €1,025 million, up 4.2% compared to the first quarter of 2021 at constant scope and exchange rates. This increase is explained by the good dynamics of the Space business, which had already benefited from a strong increase in the first quarter of 2021. The civil aeronautics business continues to rebound gradually, driven by support and services, up 15% in the first quarter.

Sales in the Defense & Security segment reached €1,950 million, down -1.1% compared to the first quarter of 2021 at constant scope and exchange rates. This slight decrease is explained by the expected phasing effects on several contracts, with high growth (+12%) having been recorded in the first quarter of 2021. Growth is expected to accelerate from Q2 2022.

Sales in the Digital Identity and Security (DIS) segment amounted to €739 million, up 12.0% at constant scope and exchange rates compared to the first quarter of 2021. In addition to the gradual recovery in biometrics (passports) and the dynamics of the cybersecurity solutions business, this growth is explained by precautionary purchases and a price effect on EMV payment cards and SIM cards reflecting the significant increase in purchasing costs. The increase on a reported basis (+16.1%) includes a positive currency effect of 4.2 points (€24 million).

Outlook

Order intake and sales for the first quarter of 2022 are in line with expectations. In this context, Thales confirms all of its annual objectives³, as listed below.

- As in 2020 and 2021, a book-to-bill ratio above 1;
- Sales in the range of €16.6 billion and €17.2 billion⁴; corresponding to organic growth between +2% and +6% compared to 2021;

⁴ Based on the scope and exchange rates of February 2022

- An EBIT margin between 10.8% and 11.1%, up 60 to 90 basis points from 2021.

This press release contains certain forward-looking statements. Although Thales believes that its expectations are based on reasonable assumptions, actual results may differ significantly from the forward-looking statements due to various risks and uncertainties, as described in the Company's Universal Registration Document, which has been filed with the French financial markets authority (Autorité des marchés financiers – AMF).
